

Re-Entry

1. When can I return to my home after evacuation?

In consultation with state emergency officials, local authorities make the decision to allow citizens back into the area. Their decision will be based on the safety of the area. Until the decision is made it is recommended you stay where you are. If you try to sneak back to the area without the decision being made, local law enforcement may arrest you.

Stay tuned to the media, because the decision to return to your home will be announced via the media.
